ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A programmable controller includes a universal microprocessor. This universal microprocessor incorporates an acceleration section. The control-program-development supporting apparatus generates an execution code directly executable by the universal microprocessor. Thereby, the acceleration section executes sequential processing.